What is the prostate massage? The prostate massage and the massage of the entire pelvic floor involves the source of deep pleasure and sensations.

A relaxed anus with a full erection is important for the sexuality of men. This relaxation, which arises during a detailed and careful prostate massage, brings men into contact with their devotion, the opening of their heart and their relationship with themselves and the world.

Due to the taboos of the anal area in our society may not touch the anus with a prostate massage for the recipient to be painful. A professional prostate massage releases by slow and deliberate touching the tension of the tissue.

In Tantra, it's about to inhabit all the "ends" and "openings" of the body and accepted. The anus is an area of the body in the unconscious components of sexuality, aggression and vitality can be bound.

A prostate massage supports the beneficiary of any such bound energy back again into conscious experience. The prostate massage directly affects the nature of every man. On the physical level, we can not penetrate deeper than a prostate massage.

We enter with the prostate massage "the holy temple" of a man. The opening of the "inner channel" can bring about healing processes on the physical and emotional level.

This requires the prostate massage clear, careful and protected spaces in which men accepted, hold and feel accepted. The worship of the divine in every man and a respectful and loving presence in this context an important role.
